MODES OF EXPRESSION

Expression of thoughts is a hard task at times to do vocally, and perhaps the best way is through creative work. Here, PH students express their thoughts through poetry, song, and art. And maybe, this is the best method of all.

How can i be myself when the world has my life planned packaged and circulated to the mail order houses and public schools computer programmers?
how do i fight holes punched in a paper card which unlike my mind cannot be spindled folded or mutilated?
how do i convince them that i am not 565-92-2107
but a living breathing feeling loving human animal equipped with logic reasoning and concern for others?
is the worth of life that which can be printed up and spewed like garbage from the mouth of a machine?
are only those achievements which can be photographed and spent worth more than understanding helping and caring?
was man given compassion only to lose it again in a maze of lights switches and memory banks?
i cannot fathon the sum of mankind . . . only single out those others who have cast off their numbers changed their addresses and bent the corners of their ibm character reference cards
i do not want the perfection of machines but the warmth of human affection i do not want to hear the whirrbuzzclick of assemblyline efficiency but the murmer of living voices.
is is too much to ask for:
life?

Class of '70:

I appreciate this opportunity to record some of my observations about your tenure at Patrick Henry. The tenor of anything I can say will be one of appreciation. You came to Patrick Henry when the cement wasn't dry, the landscaping was nonexistent and all 1700 students and staff were a group of strangers.

You leave us as young adults who have exemplified the tone of this wonderful school and community: you have demonstrated responsibility—your part in "setting by example" has been obvious and very helpful; you certainly have exuded a spirit of friendliness toward others; above all, you have taken pride in achievement, you have excelled in athletics, your standards in the academics will be difficult to better—65 seniors qualifying for State scholarships, scoring 8% better in mathematics, and 34% better in social science interpretation. Individual achievement in various subjects was astounding! The point that above must not obliterate is that you came in as eleventh graders and were told "here, you are going to be in formal class much less than you have been, you are responsible for how you use your unscheduled time." You obviously have taken this opportunity to demonstrate that you want and accept self-responsibility!

The class of 1970 deserves all of the best. Please come back and see us often. We will be watching your progress in higher education, in the world of work, and as parents with great interest!

It is almost hard to conceive how much work the secretaries at Patrick Henry do each day. Between typing, filing, doing administrative work, and chores which all others have turned down, one wonders how they keep on going! The custodial and cafeteria staff too, have monumental tasks. Without them, it wouldn't be too long before the school process would cease to function!

Most yearbooks are standardized. A dime a dozen. You can pick one up and it looks the same as any other. ENCOUNTER '70 drops the ordinary procedures of most books and comes up with an annual which expresses the mood of Patrick Henry now. If you open this book five years from now and chuckle or reminisce about the way things were, ENCOUNTER '70 will have accomplished its purpose.

The 1970 ENCOUNTER staff visited Neyenesch Printers earlier this year. Our local printer—they have been assigned the task of reproducing the works you see in this book.

PRESSING ISSUES

Walk into Room 304 sometime and you'll find people busily at work on the next issue of the Patriot Press, the school newspaper. The clacking of typewriters, the smell of glue, the first drafts covered with red pencil marks from Editor Paula Smith, and the helter-skelter scurrying of reporters meeting deadlines gives the visitor an inside look into the World of Journalism.

CSF PLUGS BRAIN DRAIN

Shelly Sonabend—vice-president, Gary Kramer—president, Lori Formway—treasurer, Rita Shaefer—secretary

Numerous people on the Patrick Henry campus receive recognition in one form or another for various accomplishments. The athlete receives a letter, applause rewards the drama student, and the journalist sees his byline heading a news story. What then, is the honor awaiting the hard-working student at school? For him, the reward is membership in the California Scholarship Federation, better known as CSF. To be in CSF, a student must rate high in both scholarship and citizenship. This year's officers, president Gary Kramer, VP Shelly Sonabend, secretary Rita Shaefer, and treasurer Lori Formway, were sworn in earlier this year during a ceremony which marked the club's official acceptance into the statewide Federation. Mrs. Jean Goodrich has sponsored the Patrick Henry Chapter of CSF since its inception.

Mieke Smit from the Netherlands

Looking over the past year, I have found many things I like about U.S. life. The one thing I liked best was PHHS. From the very first day, students and teachers were very friendly and helpful; they made me really feel at ease.

The system is very different from what I am used to. It asks more responsibility; you have it in your hands, and that's the way it should be. I have found a lot of very nice people here who have, through the year, become very good friends, and I am very thankful for that. I will never forget all the fun I had on the Patrick Henry campus. It was great.

Another aspect of the life of an AFS'er is her life with a family. From the very beginning, my family treated me as a member of the family, not as a guest. My sister has not only been my sister but also maybe the best friend I have ever had. They made me feel at home, were very warm, and helped me with all the little problems you have when you are in a foreign country.

Both of you, the PH people and my family, were great. There is no way I can thank you, you have made one of the best experiences of my life come true.

Daag,
Mieke

Mieke and Viveka at their first pep rally

Brothers Abroad is the organization responsible for sponsoring Patrick Henry's foreign exchange students. Dedicated to international cooperation, the club had a successful year on all accounts. Through bond sales, Brothers Abroad was able to bring two foreign exchange students here this year. Mieke Smit from the Netherlands and Viveka Larsson from Sweden attended Patrick Henry through the efforts of the organization under President Marsha Jordan. Mieke and Viveka were introduced to our student body during the first rally of the year. Since then, they have enjoyed a full year of American high school life. Brothers Abroad has already begun plans for acquiring next year's foreign exchange students.

ABROAD EXPORTS GOODWILL

Mieke, Brothers Abroad sponsor Mrs. Marion Newcomb, and Viveka

What do you think about Patrick Henry? I don't know how many times I have answered that question, but the answer has always been the same. Patrick Henry High School is great. It is quite different from the school system I am used to. To attend Patrick Henry is a very valuable experience for me. PHHS does not only mean a lot of studying for me, but also a lot of friends and a lot of fun. I never dreamt that I could get so many wonderful friends here.

School is just one part of the AFS program. Another part is to live with an American family and be a member of it. And I am happy to say that I stayed with such a wonderful family as the Schuler family. I thought it would be hard to adjust to a completely new family. That was before I met them. They made me feel at home the first day with them.

I owe my family and friends here a lot of thanks for making my year here in the USA a wonderful year that I will never forget.

Tack,
Viveka

Keeping the bench warm during football games and painting posters were just two of the numerous activities of the Henryettes this year. Another new club at Patrick Henry, the Henryettes are one of the largest and liveliest clubs on campus. Anytime you get 70 girls together you can't help but have a noisy, spirited group. From football season until the end of the school year, the Henryettes continued their support of Patrick Henry activities.

The role of the Athenas is dual in nature. Not only are they the Girl's Honor Society, but are also an active service club as well. Nancy Witcraft was the president, and had competent aids in Amy Robinson, Terrie Smith, and Peggy Nishida to assist her. The club has only senior membership, so it's a goal that all underclass femmes shoot for. This year, the Athenas pointed to the adoption of a five-year-old orphan from Brazil as their main project.

In addition, these girls went on field trips and prepared a series of foreign food banquets.

TRADITION OF P. HENRY

The age of great oratory is not dead! It is alive and well with the Speech Team here at Patrick Henry. With headquarters in room 105, our resident orators plot and plan for upcoming speech competitions. Under the guidance of Mr. Terry Carlson, the group has won numerous city as well as county meets. Debate, Discussion, Interpretation, and Forensics are the main events for the speakers. Among the top people in these different events are the Debate teams of Charles Gorder and Jack Martin, and Dave Sklar and Paul Quimby, Collette Furr in Interp, Bill Shepard in Forensics, and David Plaut in the Discussion tourney. It seems that almost every week the orators are entering another contest. Their excellence is recognized by the many trophies which have been won in the various speech festivals and are now commonplace in the speech team room. In fact, even Patrick Henry himself would be proud of their achievements.

GIRLS' LEAGUE FOSTERS GIRL POWER

At a time when women across the country are demanding their rights, it might seem that our local feminine organization, Girls' League, would be planning its own revolt. But this year's Girls' League Cabinet was too busy planning a variety of activities to think of revolt. And sponsor Mrs. Mary Barr wouldn't have it any other way. The Cabinet, headed by president Robin Hervey, directed its efforts toward such projects as the Christmas Mailbox and the Dad and Daughter Banquet. Under the direction of Barbara Maloney, the Girls' League fashion show was held again this year. But the most important date on the Girls' League calendar was April 17, the date of the Girls' League dance. Chairman Terrie Smith organized this year's girl-ask-boy event, "Rhapsody in the Rain." In addition Girls' League has the difficult task of honoring a deserving girl each month and selecting Patrick Henry's Girl of the Year. Even without revolt, Patrick Henry's Girls' League seems to be promoting its own brand of girl power.

BREAKFAST!

Ever leave the house in the morning without eating anything? Then you go hungry until lunchtime and your stomach starts to make mysterious noises. Well for Key Clubbers, this is hardly a problem, for on Wednesday mornings the boys join Mr. William Schwandt, their advisor, in the cafeteria for breakfast and a general meeting. The club, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Allied Gardens, sponsors a vocational speaker series and donates money to the Band and Athletic departments for uniforms and equipment. In addition, Key Club projects included organizing the Cystic Fibrosis Campaign on campus and cementing in the PH on the hill. Frank Fornaca runs the affairs while he has vice-president Mike Harbert, secretary Craig Morris, and treasurer Eric Toolson to aid him.

SWEET MUSIC FILLS THE

Simon and Garfunkel may glorify the "Sounds of Silence" but this certainly is not the case with Patrick Henry's Choir and Girls' Chorus. Not only do these groups fill the air with their harmonies much of the time, but they also sing extremely well as seen from their performances at city and county song festivals. Along with accompanists Mary Ellen Hanthorn and Ray Kalanquin, both groups sing their vocal arrangements for various audiences. During the holiday season, the Choir sang at the Lafayette School for Hearing while the Girls' Chorus performed at Pershing and Lewis Junior Highs. Under the directorship of Mr. Robert Keller, both groups keep Patrick Henry well-supplied with beautiful sounds.

SOUND OFF

Two new groups played their way into the Patrick Henry music scene this year, the Concert Band and the Stage Band. The Concert Band, by far the larger of the two, concentrates on playing contemporary music at school concerts and at out-of-town festivals. Since this music is very complex and demanding, being a member of the Concert Band is quite a challenge. But first clarinetist Sue Kolter, timpanist Vic Knarreborg, solo trumpet Tim Brandt, and the other 85 members of the Concert Band were equal to the challenge. On the other hand, one of the most popular musical groups on campus has just 19 members and specializes in jazz and popular music. The Stage Band, which performs at assemblies and Jazz contests, is a pretty dedicated group. The only time that they can rehearse is in the evenings, and lead alto sax Linda Herstein and trombonist Mike Haines can attest to the long hours that they have put in. Both bands are under the direction of Mr. David Amos.

FROM SPIRIT TO STRINGS

Wow! When it comes to pep, our Pep Band can't be outdone. Under the leadership of Mr. David Amos and his apprentice Jim Leger, the members of the Pep Band for the first straight year labeled themselves "Best in the West." And no one can deny it when they play such varied tunes as the difficult theme from "2001," "Night Train," and the backing to our songleaders now-legendary "Stripper" routine. The Pep Band attends all home basketball games and away football games, frequently leading the cheering section in a spirited "Charge!" Part of this group's popularity can be attributed to its diversity. From Bob Blessing's tuba and Steve Lamb's drums to Linda Whiteley's flute, the Pep Band does its job with enthusiasm.

The String Orchestra is a group of musicians doing what they do best. Consisting entirely of string players, it ranges from violinist Brad Kilmer to cellist Teri McIntosh. And since there is a shortage of good contemporary pieces written especially for strings, they concentrate their talents mainly on playing 18th Century Chamber Music Literature. The String Orchestra displays its skills at such programs as the Christmas and the Spring Concerts. With the addition of wind instruments from the band, the String Orchestra takes on its complete identity as the full Orchestra.

SERVICE WITH A SMILE

It used to be that if you had some problems, an expert would recommend AAMCO. But this is no longer necessary. When help is needed, the cry goes out for the hard-working Senior Y-Teens. A busy organization dedicated to helping other causes on and off campus, some of their activities have been especially outstanding. Besides sponsoring a yearly dance known as "Carousel," they help to decorate other school dances as well. The Y-Teens are always active in raising funds for other clubs, and often sell candy to raise money for themselves. Peggy Rogers is the president and is capably assisted by sister Patti, Ann Levine, and secretary Margie Flynn.

Y-TEENS AND GOOD DEEDS

"Look! Up in the sky! It's a bird! It's a plane! No, it's a Junior Y-Teen! Under the guise of a mild-mannered girl student, she springs into action upon a moment's notice to render aid to those in trouble." It might sound a little corny, but this is a fairly accurate description of Patrick Henry's Junior Y-Teens, and they couldn't be prouder. Helping people is their business and it's been a very busy year. One of their first activities was a dinner for the football team. Since then they have obtained clothing and blankets for San Diego County's American Indians and have donated funds to UNICEF. In addition, twice a month, several Junior Y-Teens visit a home for mentally retarded children to play with the kids. Headed by president Libby Whitworth and vice-president Robin Smith, the club's members have the satisfaction of knowing that they have helped others.

It's pretty hard to get accustomed to a new school, but for Sophomore Y-Teens that's the easy part. The difficulties begin when you try to get a first-year club organized. But despite the usual hassles, Patrick Henry's Sophomore Y-Teens had a successful and busy year. As soon as president Janet Buckby and vice-president Carol Mueller were in office, the club began the long process of planning and preparing a service project. One of treasurer Pat Walker's first concerns was to bolster the Club treasury. This was accomplished through numerous sales and a car wash. Combining business with pleasure, Sophomore Y-Teens had a slumber party and an ice cream social. With two more years as Y-Teens, their rewards should be well worth the hard work.

ARMY LIFE IN STRIDE

About 70 Patrick Henry girls had a taste of the army this year. They had to wear uniforms and learn how to march in perfectly straight ranks while carrying rifles. For three months they woke up at dawn every morning in order to be on the field at 7:20 A.M. And their leaders were Colonel Claudia Higgins and Captains Patty Rogers and Janette Pelletier. Were these girls drafted? No, they are all members of the Patrick Henry Liberty Belles, one of the finest drill teams in the city. The Liberty Belles, under the direction of Miss Marcia Peterson, performed at all home football and basketball games. Along with the Patriots Marching Band, they marched in the Autumn Band Review downtown, the Mother Goose Parade, the San Diego City Schools Band Review, and the Pasadena Bowl Parade. And all the girls, including technicians Sue Lighthizer, Terry Lund, and Bev Askew, were rewarded for their hard work when the drill team and band were invited to perform in a Charger pre-game show. Patrick Henry made history by being the first city school ever to be represented at a Charger game. This climax to their fantastically successful year was enough to make all the Liberty Belles forget about those cold, damp mornings.

Trying to take the pulse of a Health Careers Club member is a major operation. The Marcus Welbys of Patrick Henry are constantly on the go. President Larry Macurda and vice-president Sheryl Neuenswander, along with their health-oriented friends, have busily involved themselves in exploring their future careers in the field of health. Fourteen members of the club have gone for a day at the hospital, watching doctors and nurses in action. They participated in the San Diego Health Clinic by sponsoring a booth during the show at the Community Concourse. The group plans field trips to places like Scripps Institute, area hospitals, and medical centers. As far as this organization is concerned everything is 98.6.

FASTIDIOUSLY FRENCH

French premiere Georges Pompidou had a few problems in the United States, but members of Patrick Henry's French Club should get along beautifully in France. Their Gaelic activities have them fully prepared. A bake sale to raise funds was held, and a program was held to celebrate Bastille Day when a film was made starring kids from school. During the joyous Noel season, the members of the club sing carols in francais. They visit the House of France and were hosts there for a day. Debbie O'Toole is the president of the club, and Kay Gould keeps track of the dollars and cents. Miss Florence Wofford is the advisor of the group.

One of the most sought-after items of apparel on any high school campus is the letterman's jacket. The jacket along with its letter represents the highest possible honor received by an athlete. At Patrick Henry, though, the "H" has even more value. With CIF championship teams in gymnastics and golf, Eastern League winners in football, and solid contenders in most other sports, the athletes have truly earned their letters. All of these outstanding athletes are automatically members of the Lettermen's Club, headed by president Gary Fenell. During their off-season, lettermen handle concession sales for many school events with Eric Toolson keeping track of their finances.

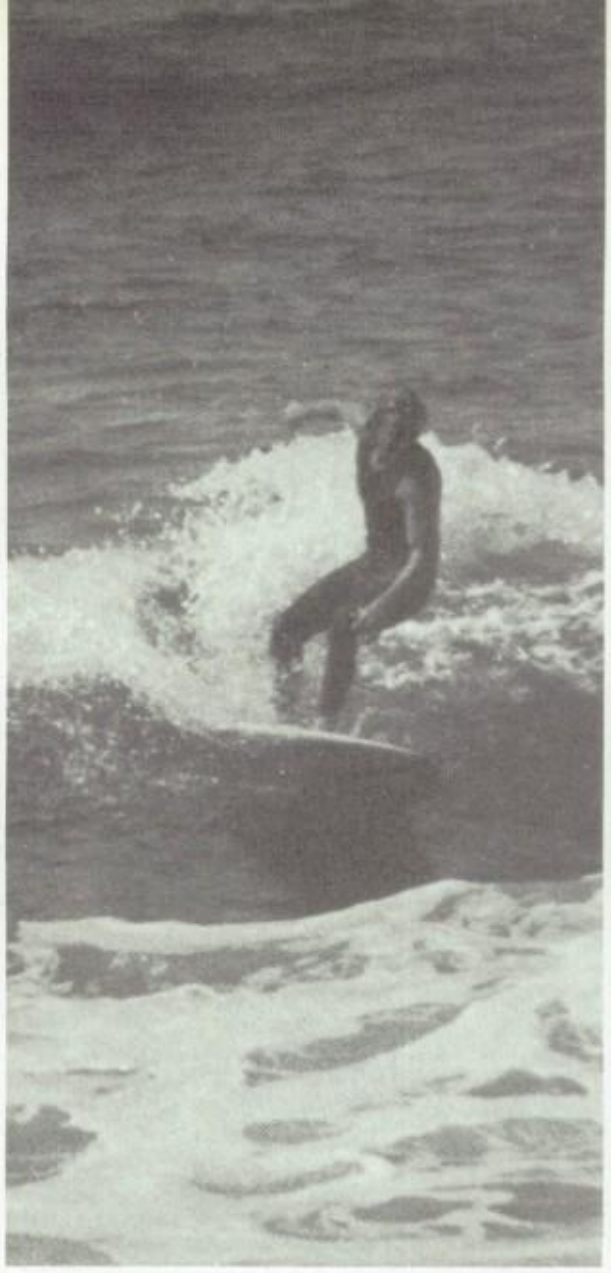
GAMES PEOPLE PLAY

G.I. representatives Lynda Gauntlett, Chris Sargent, Kathy Rump, Leslie Rions, and Robin Hervey

A vital part of the girls' physical education department is the girls' intramurals program. Open to anyone in the school, girls may come out and participate in a variety of different sports. This year, the organization fields teams in basketball, track, and field hockey. In addition, badminton, tennis, gymnastics, swimming, and volleyball are other areas where Patrick Henry girls excel. The list of girls participating in this program this year includes Chris Sargent, Robin Hervey, Leslie Rions, Kathy Rump, and Lynda Gauntlett. Competition matches are held within the school with winners advancing to interschool tournaments in all sports. The groups have also raised funds with different sales for equipment needed by the athletic department besides engaging in their respective sports.



Up until this year, surfing was an activity which was done outside of school. But now, with the formation of the San Diego Inter-High School Surfing Council, interested surfers can compete against teams from other schools for the honor of top high school surf team in San Diego. Patrick Henry's surf team, formed by Craig Morris and Mike Potter, is a member of the council and competes in District 1 against Crawford, La Jolla, and Madison. Collin Cremo, Mike Potter, Paul Schulman, Mike Gronfein, Bob Higgins and Rick Snyder surf for Patrick Henry. Although a non-surfer, Craig Morris acts as president of both the twelve-school Surfing Council and the PH Surf Club. Mr. Sam Turner is the advisor of the group.

GOVERNMENT & CURRICULUM

ASSOCIATED STUDENT BODY

Part of our active ASB Cabinet: Paul Milne, Doris Johnson, Paul Schulman, Janice Bertrand, Bob Grossman, President David Kay, Cathy Hrastich, Geary Robertson, Cheri Shebo, and Ronnie Tov

The regulator of the campus, the Associated Student Body government is the heartbeat of the school. All organizations are affiliated with it, all campus activities must be approved by it, and communication is generally done through it. The ASB Cabinet is elected by the student body at the end of the previous year. Its various officers are responsible for such areas of student involvement as athletics, assemblies and rallies, publications, finance, and symbols and traditions. In addition, two new committees were added this year to the already-functioning Activities Council and Instructional Council.

A tutoring program to aid students having difficulty in certain subjects was introduced and a new segment of the ASB government was formed this year to circulate information on various charities. Though the ASB Cabinet is kept constantly busy working for our active student body, there were some lighter moments. The Fall Festival was an exciting conclusion to the football season and the ASB Ball in December was enjoyed by all who attended. In the Spring, the hard-fought ASB elections are always looked forward to with eager anticipation.

STUDENTS TAKE ON RESPONSIBILITY...

Patrick Henry is a fun school to be at this year since there are so many activities we can participate in. Four committees work well to pull off successful events.

The Activities Council under Mr. Wightman and Cathy Hrastich, Randy Grago, Fran Ammon, David Kay, Doris Johnson, Patti Morris, Joe Kobryner, Bruce Golden and Ron Tov scheduled such things as sales, plays and sporting events.

To get people to come to these events, Scott Mays' Assemblies and Rallies Crew with Geary Robertson, Dan Weikel, Ron Frant, and David Plaut is called in. The weekly series of "Super Patriot" will probably go down in Patrick Henry history.

Student Affairs with Mimi Eilers in charge and Cathy Adamczyk, Patti Fritz, Scott Mays, Dennis Gay, Vivian Camberg, Carole Salamy, Marsha Musick Amy Robinson, Kit Pugh, Linda Lane, and Randy Grago run the dances and special events.

And behind all these, Cathy Hrastich and her financial committee make all these events go, keeping track of the dollars and cents.

Four subsidiaries of ASB make this year an active one. The ASB Congress meets regularly with representatives from each guidance mod for listening and discussion. From there, the groups get smaller, but the responsibility grows.

Commissioner Patti Fritz of Symbols and Traditions works with her committee of Bill Gay, Leslie Birdsong, Dennis Gay, Brenda Lennick, Scott Mays, as they continue to establish a Patrick Henry heritage.

Under Linda Lane, the Buildings and Grounds crew of Cathy Adamczyk, Vivian Camberg, Frank Fornaca, Mimi Eilers, Randy Grago, and Scott Mays work for a cleaner campus and more plants and shrubbery.

The committee which sees the most action of all is the Dress Code group, with Jack Martin as chairman. Jack's aides are Scott Mays, Craig Morris, Lorrie Herzberg, Patti Morris, Karen Stroup, Bugsy Solomon, Gregg Delozier, Howard Robinson. Discussions were held regarding the style and policy of fashion for the school. Parents, teachers, and students all participate actively on this committee.

EVERYDAY ACTIVITIES

Monday morning at 8:30 as the day begins . . . flag raising opens up another busy day at school. Then it's off to guidance mod where the bulletin is read and open mod cards are filled out for the day. After a quick fifteen minutes in homeroom, the troops are dispersed and it's off to a variety of different spots. The choices range from a P.E. class to a resource center, a seminar in math class to the quad or the cafeteria.

KALEIDOSCOPIC VIEW OF SCHOOL

Brace yourself for Margaret's home-cooked rutabagas!

Ask any student on the Patrick Henry campus how they like the mod system and they answer with the statement, "I don't think I could ever go back to the conventional system again." Why do people feel this way about the mod system? What does it offer that compels the students to like it so much?

The answer lies in the student's independence. The student is left to work at his own pace, to do the things he feels are necessary to complete his course successfully. He is also left with certain open times during the day where he can seek additional aid, do his research in the library, make up a test, or relax in the quad.

There are several additions that you find here that don't exist at other schools. The open mod card which is filled out each day in guidance mod is an item rarely found on other campuses. The Independent Study Program enables students to take several subjects on their own time so that they may achieve credits for graduation, or just for the pleasure of learning. And, there are quest courses which students can petition for or join. These courses allow the student to organize or sometimes teach a subject which is of interest to him.

Changes from the ordinary schooling of the past are now in effect at Patrick Henry. The Patriots are leading the way for what could be the education system of tomorrow.

WE'VE GOT THE SPIRIT

What was it like to be Song and Cheer Leaders at Patrick Henry? It was the thrill and excitement of tryouts — having your zipper break just before your turn to go on — awaiting the final results — floating on air for days after winning. It was sewing dry-clean-only letters onto do-not-dry-clean uniforms and having to resew them after every washing — going to all of those early morning practices — baking cakes, pies, and a million other things for our team — losing hairpieces at rallies — leading the very first cheer of the season with knees shaking — waiting for that 5-4-3-2-1-0 WE WON! Cheerleading is knowing that the Patriots have more spirit than any other school and experiencing the joy of victory or the agony of defeat.

How can you have a Homecoming when there hasn't been a graduating senior class from Patrick Henry yet? Well, somehow, the Patriots were able to come up with a splendid facsimile with the "Fall Festival." Taking place during the week-end of the Crawford game, the events began Friday morning at the pep rally when different contests between the classes took place. Patti Fritz, Commissioner of Symbols and Traditions, and Scott Mays, Commissioner of Rallies and Assemblies, were the brains behind such madness as tricycle races, toilet-paper wrapping, class floats, and a visit from KCBQ Deejay, Happy Hare. On the night of the game, the Queen and her Court were announced, and the gridders rewarded the fans with a 39-0 trouncing of the Colts.

"DARK OF THE MOON" IS

This way, Mr. First Nighter! You'll love tonight's Drama Department production of "Dark of the Moon." Under the direction of Mr. Wyman, this musical drama concerns itself with a witch boy (Joe Teague and Tom Hall) who becomes human because he has fallen in love with a hillbilly girl (Sue McQuoid and Debbie Morrison). You'll want to tell your friends about the show, but you had better hurry. The show runs only four days, and we're almost sold out!

After three successful tries with regular plays, the drama department gets daring and stages a revue called "Somehing Else." And as far as the audiences of the sold-out show are concerned, it's another drama department triumph. The pantomimes of Bryan Marvis, Tom Hall, Howard Robinson and Dave Ontell are comical to all, while the ballet artistry of Lydia Morales captivates them. Dance numbers with Lynn Leuba, Janice Petty, Kelly Wright, and Kathi Ross and the clever group numbers are also highlights. Tack on the hilarious melodrama with the heroes Greg Delozier and Doug Hall, heroines Paulette Moerder and Becky Worth, and evil villains Ernie Halcon and Dave Plaut, and you certainly have SOMETHING ELSE!

It's starting to become a tradition. To begin the holiday season each year, Patrick Henry students attend the ASB Ball. The picture of the Masonic Temple on December 19 is one of sheer delight. As the elegant ladies and dapper young gentlemen dance to the music of the Blue and Grey, the dance committee headed by Mimi Eilers with Vivian Camberg, Linda Lane, Elaine Peat, Paul Schulman, Cathy Adamczyk, and Randy Grago breath a sigh of relief. Through their hard efforts, the dance is working smoothly. Add to their perserverance the Santa couple cards provided by Peggy and Patty Rogers, Nancy Van Gaasbeek, Barbara Smith, Debbie Johnson, Linda Mitchell, Ann Levine, and other members of the Senior Y-Teens, and you find one of the most successful and enjoyable events of the season.

Right: Among those in attendance are Marty Wilson, Doris Johnson, Brad Booth, Byron Rose, Sherry Forman, Pat McGowan, Elaine Peat.

Are you sure this is the way Aunt Jemima got started?

Sticky fingers

February 28 brings the last day of the second month and also the eagerly-awaited Pancake Breakfast, sponsored by the ASB. All morning long the students and parents pour into the cafeteria while helpful students pour batter in the kitchen. While the rain comes down outside, the syrup drips out of the bottle onto the delicious pancakes, and the crunchy bacon goes right along with the tangy orange juice and the warm coffee. The masterminds behind this tasty event are Cathy Adamczyk and her hard-working committee of Gary Nicholl, Cathy Hrastich, Dean Davison, Mimi Eilers, Greg Honig, Denise Skinner, Vivian Camberg, and many more.

HERE COME THE SEVENTIES!

It's the last year at Patrick Henry and the seniors are working hard to make it their best. Emptying cans of diet Coke to make money for the Prom is quite a project but it's really worth it! (Especially if you shake up the can first and point it at one of your friends!) There is so much to do — build the senior float, senior rings, Disneyland, Senior Week, senior assemblies, the prom, after prom, and at last Graduation. WHAT A YEAR!

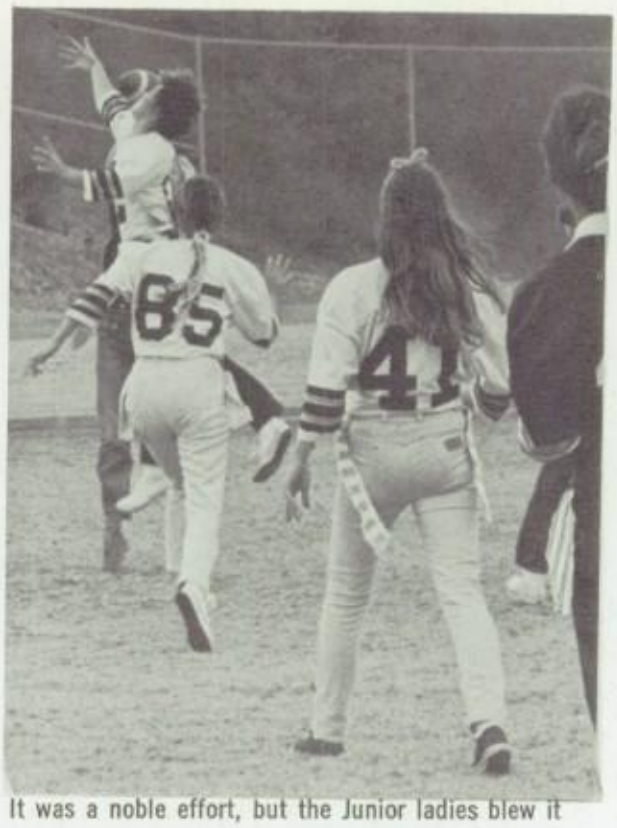
AND SOUL

It's me, it's me, it's me, oh Lord . . .



It was a noble effort, but the Junior ladies blew it

Although the senior year in high school is recognized as the best in a school career, the underclassmen at Patrick Henry are trying their best to make their respective years as enjoyable. The Sophomore class has provided such events as the Trust concert, licorice and taffy sales. The J.V. cheerleaders, Suzy Nitz, Mary Ann Stuemke, Laurie Walters, Karen Carley, and Janet Buckby, help to keep the spirit of the class at full pitch during rallies and games. President Marty Wilson, vice president, Mark Krasner, and treasurer, Pam Howard are the masterminds behind the activities.

The Juniors, meanwhile, haven't exactly been twiddling their thumbs, either. Paul Milne, the president, and secretary, Terrie Carlson are continually busy devising new plans and projects. The Charles King assembly and cake and cookie sales are a few of the accomplishments of the grade elevens.

The busy ladies are at it again. It seems that it is impossible to stop these gals from turning out successful activities. Athenas Amy Robinson, Nancy Witcraft, and Cathy Adamczyk have a hand in organizing their club's activities and sales, while Girls' League sponsors a dance and delivers Christmas cards during the yuletide season. Robin Hervey is the driving force behind these events, with Terrie Smith organizing the dances. In the Powderpuff Football game the junior femmes battle the senior dames, while in real football, the cheerleaders shout for their team and the future hopefuls continue to practice cheerleading routines. And on the more serene side, Melody Fahring, Pat Gottschalk, Lydia Morales, and the other girls in the modern dance group are provided with a chance to work with recent techniques in the art of footwork.

You may not have noticed it, but at just about every school event this year, including the Girl's League dance, a short fellow is dashing around, snapping pictures at a rapid-fire rate. Mighty Dave Young is only one of the employees of the Busco-Nestor Corporation, the group which has helped the Encounter staff this year with countless photos. To the entire staff at Busco-Nestor, a hearty thanks for a job well done.

Last year, in the words of Coach Imlay, the cross country team "consistently outscored their opponents." If you know how cross country meets are scored, you are aware that this is bad. Well, this year, things were a lot different. The Patriots rose from last place to third, and with a varsity consisting only of juniors and sophomores. This guarantees top performances from the squad in campaigns ahead. Scott Hurst was voted as the most valuable runner and team captain. Other standouts were Bob Swanek and Tim Wells.

The Patriots winning the Eastern League Championship? You've got to be kidding! It's just their first year in varsity competition and they'll be lucky to finish the season at all! What a laugh! Wait a minute. Stop laughing. Look at this. The Patriots finished with a 6-3 mark, best ever for a first year club in San Diego prep history. Things looked bleak after the first two games when the Patriots lost both contests and both quarterbacks to boot. But flanker Tony Patag came in and did the job, guiding the Patriots to six wins in their final seven conflicts. The ground attack paced by the league-leading rusher Scott Andrews and the savage blocking of Gary Fenell were other big offensive weapons. Ted Bellinger's never-say-die play was a big plus on defense, while middle guard Glenn Vail dealt out his salutations to opposing quarterbacks more times than any other player on the team. And the "little men" like placekicker Craig Moss did the job all year. His consistency in extra points and field goals was a boost to the entire team.

Pat McGowne clears path for quarterback, Glenn Cady

Playing in a "must win" situation, the Patriots come through again with an exciting 13-0 victory over the Morse Tigers. Roy Harvey's first varsity catch is good for 16 yards and a touchdown. The second score was a brilliant 52-yard jaunt by Tony Patag which put the Patriots out of reach. Later, a superb Henry defense led by Larry Moss and Ted Bellinger stymied the Tigers four times inside the five yard line.

The Patriots entered Aztec Bowl as heavy underdogs against the unbeaten St. Augustine Saints, but emerged with a thrilling 7-0 win. A stubborn Patriot defense led by Ted Bellinger and Glenn Vail shut out the Saints for the first time in 39 games. Bob Laughlin's key interception and a clutch catch by Larry Potts were also cogs in the victory. Tony Patag's one-yard plunge proved to be the winning score. The Saints, meanwhile, could muster only a measly 28 yards in total rushing.

Patriot fury

The Patriots suffer their first loss of the year to the Cavers on Halloween night, but almost rally to tie, 21-14. A 50-yard run for a score by Tony Patag and Roger Souders' vault into the end zone were the scoring plays for the Pats, but it wasn't enough as Patrick Henry dropped their first league conflict.

PRIDE AND POISE

The Patrick Henry Patriots placed four players and two honorable mention on the 1969 Eastern League Football All-Star Team. The selections are sponsored by the Breitbard Athletic Foundation. Out of all the selections, only three juniors were chosen, and two were from the Patriots. One of them, Ted Bellinger, copped the all-league tight end spot, while the other, Van Kessler, was voted to one of the offensive tackle spots. The other Henry offensive player to make the first team was guard Gary Fenell.

On defense, middle guard Glenn Vail, who led the league in unassisted tackles, was a choice as an all-league lineman. Two offensive backs made honorable mention for the Green and Gold. Tailback Scott Andrews, the league's leading rusher with 719 yards, was one selection, and quarterback Tony Patag, who guided the Patriots to four victories, the other.

After winning the Eastern League JV Crown last year, the Patriots were gunning for two titles in a row. They fell short in their attempts, but still finished a strong second with a sparkling 4-2 league mark and 7-2 record overall. Patrick Henry was the only team to defeat league champion Morse the entire season. Standouts for the squad were speedy tailback Gary Davison and signal-caller Darrell Garrett on offense, and Mike Jacquemart and Jeff Shively on the defensive squad. Traditions should be established as soon as possible, and the Patrick Henry JV Football Program is doing just that; the tradition of winning.

GYMNASTS START WINNING TRADITION

Last year, the experienced gymnastic teams in the Eastern League treated the Patriots like a little boy—patting their heads and telling them to run along and leave the big boys alone. But this year, the Patriots decided it was time to join the fun. Romping through their schedule undefeated, they easily clinched the Eastern League Championship and then breezed through the CIF Finals to become San Diego Champs! Led by the expertise of Coach Runge, the Pats were able to dethrone perennial leader Crawford as the loop's best, for the first time in six years. The talent ran high on the club as eight men qualified for the CIF Finals. Among those were D. J. Beswick, Mike Botte, Randy Hupp, Ed Maxwell, Pete Moss, Rick Snyder, Steve Stodelle, and Ted Tibbs. These gymnasts, along with the rest of the crew, were able to give Patrick Henry their first CIF berth in the school's history. It won't be their last.

WHERE THE HIGH WERE THE MIGHTY

FROM BASEMENT TO BALCONY

The 1969-70 basketball season was one of steady improvement for the Varsity club. After finishing dead last in the Eastern League in their first year, the Patriots rose to fourth place, and challenged for a playoff berth until the very last game.

Highlights of the year were wins over strong teams like Santana and Lincoln, and improvement of many players throughout the season. An injury to leading scorer Gary Volk hurt the club, but center Bill Hilke, forward Brad Adams, and guard Ted Tibbs shot well enough to make up for Volk's loss. The tough defensive assignments were always given to guard Scott Thomas, and Craig West was especially outstanding when the job called for aggressive play and hustle. Backing up the regulars were such players as Ed Crenshaw and Mike Zittel, whose encouragement helped the entire team. With John Service, Tibbs, Zittel, Crenshaw, and Tom Farnham returning next year, the Patriots could climb some more.

TO THE WIRE

The 1969-70 junior varsity squad at Patrick Henry had one of the most exciting seasons ever, keeping fans on the edges of their seats. "The Cardiac Kids" sent several games into overtime, won a few contests by one point, and even dropped a couple games by a field goal or less. Guards Glenn Montague, Gary Cady, Darrell Garrett and Brian Bullas contributed greatly, while up front top forwards were Chris Calhoun, Mike Hayward, Andy Cylke, and Sherman Wise.
Centers Gary Baker and Chuck Shewmaker added scoring and rebounding help up the middle. The Pats were 6-6 in league play and 12-11 altogether. Almost strictly a squad of sophomores, future Patriot games should be more thrilling than ever.

How can wrestling be exciting without biting, gouging, kicking and screaming at your opponent? Come down to the gym sometime and see the Varsity Patriot wrestlers in action. For starters, Coach Boehmke has the undefeated Van Kessler, who went 8-0 during the season. Then there's muscular Rick Buckley, who pinned every opponent he faced. Both qualified for the CIF tourney along with Steve Stewart, Bob Orlansky, Rick Johnson, John Vehar, and Andy Puleo. Other top wrestlers on the squad are Paul Vehar, Gary Fenell, Tom Hankins, and Dave Harloff. Their success led to a 4-2 league standing and total season record of 6-3, good enough for second place in the Eastern League. The JV team also captured second place with a fine 7-2 record.

TALENT SPARKLES ON PATRIOT DIAMOND

Larcenous Tony Patag swipes another base against Crawford

It takes time to build a strong baseball team, especially in a league as tough as the Eastern League. (Just ask any San Diego Padre about their problems in the National League). But this year, the second-year Patriots began to make their presence felt. Coach Bob Imlay fielded a very competitive team with plenty of talent and outstanding players. Bob McGhen, the club's leading hitter, has powered quite a few home runs to win key ballgames for the club. Glenn Cady has come up with some big hits for the Patriots, while doing a fine defensive job at shortstop. Additional power in the lineup is added with Bob Porter, Jim Parker, Dave Epstein, and Greg Green. The speed for the extra base is provided by the fleet Tony Patag and Max Mohl. The pitching too, has accomplishments well-worth recapping. Mike Strine threw a no-hitter in the Lions' Tourney and John Angus threw a one-hitter against St. Augustine. Dan Huntley is the team's big winner, and also leads the club in srikeouts, while Roger Smith is the "Ron Herbel" of the club (Herbel relieves for the Padres), coming in to stop rallies in the end of games by Eastern League rivals. With quite a few juniors on the roster, Coach Imlay has many returnees to build on for next year.

The 1970 edition of Patrick Henry Junior Varsity Baseball has made a complete reversal over its record in their first season. On the bottom in 1969 the upcoming players put together a most successful year. At press time, the Patriots are only ½ game out of first with still a third of the season to go, and you can be assured that they'll be up on top before the season is over. Baseball is won by scoring more runs than the opponent, and Jeff Shively has been leading the club in that department all season. To bring those runs in, Toni Gilcrease, and Mario Orton have been most productive. For defense, shortstop Brian Bullas is the man you want for that job. In addition, he has been quite discourteous to opposing pitchers this season with his bat. Pitching is no problem for the JV wth top men in Darrell Garrett and Ray Bolton. Coach Liles indeed has a fine program going which continually brings new talent to the varsity club.

How often do you see a prep team in any sport blitzkrieg through a schedule undefeated, winning every match by wide margins? And it hardly seems likely that a team would conceivably do this well in its second season. But the 1970 Patrick Henry Golf Team has accomplished this, winning Eastern League easily and going into the CIF finals as the odds-on favorite to win. With Coach Montague's training, the team has been able to win gratifying matches with golf powers Crawford and Poway. And a glance at the superior talent on the team makes the undefeated season seem more logical. Leading the team is Aly Trompas, acknowledged by golf experts as the greatest junior golfer in the United States today. Alhough Trompas is a leader, his teammates certainly have also proved exceptional, enroute to a perfect season. The Booth Brothers, Doug and Brad, along with Mark Degrazier, Ray Havens, Bob Lueck, Duke Snyder, Walt Weisman, Dan Brennan, Andy Cylke, and Frank Desmond, have all had fine seasons. And the dynasty is just starting. Over half of the squad returns next year for their senior season, and one wonders, how more devastating can a team be?

Like a Tom Cylke pole vault, the 1970 Patriot Track Team rose from 6th place in the Eastern League in 1969 to second place in one season. The Patriots made their progress with such talent as Cylke, who not only set the school record in pole vaulting, but the San Diego Indoor Track Meet record as well. Another champion in the San Diego Indoor Meet this year is Dave Lawhead, who took the top spot for the high jump. Junior Jim Howe is the best sprinter on the squad, while another junior, Ron Blackwood, holds dual school records in the long jump and the low hurdles. Jeff Vivian and Bruce Haines toss the shotput farthest of anyone on the team, while for distance, the job goes to Scott Hurst for the 880 and Bob Swanek for the mile run. Coach Runge and assistant coach Dolbey can indeed be pleased with the success of the team which is mostly underclassmen. With this in mind, the track team will be satisfied only with the CIF title in 1971.

Not even a great clairvoyant such as Jeanne Dixon is needed to predict the future for the Patriot swim team. After watching Patrick Henry climb to second place this season with mostly underclassmen on the club, the task of prediction is quite simple for anyone. Coach Phillips has done a fine job by molding individual talent into a solid team. Lee Mench and Mike Jordan have led the club all year in scoring, while other fine efforts have been seen by Paul Jacob in the backstroke, Paul Culkin with the butterfly, and diving skills performed by Ernie Weber and Tim O'Neill. Other strong performers are Dan Foelsch, Jeff Ferber, Dean Janoff, Tom Halfaker, Harlan Levy, Kevin Murphy, Dale Weldele; Mike Slovacek, Bob Mossay, Ron Nelson, and Rich Randolph. After the 1970 regular season is completed, the swim team has a good chance of taking CIF.

In 1969, the Patrick Henry Tennis Team finished a surprising fourth in the Eastern League. In 1970, the club battled their way to second place. Their outstanding success can be measured in two especially satisfying wins for Coach Fritz Ziegenfuss and the team. One was an annihilation of Morse early in the year with 31-1 score and the other was a comeback victory over arch-rival Hoover, 18-14. The future of tennis at Patrick Henry is assured excellence with underclassmen Larry Belinsky, Jim Strachan, Greg Vinbladh, Jack Ringer, Tom Brown, Dick Brooks, and Mark Krasner; but the team would certainly have not reached such heights without the senior power provided by Doug Peller, Dave Kay, Dennis Madison, Mike Scholl, Randy Krum, and Gary Devan. Building on an already outstanding record, a first place finish is quite conceivable for Patriot tennis teams in ensuing seasons.

Lesile Rions makes a split decision

At Patrick Henry this year, the Girls' Sports Program can proudly call itself one of the busiest and most successful of its kind in the city. The young ladies have competed and won matches both inside the school as well as against other schools in the area.

The Girls' Tennis Team took second place in the Eastern League this year, losing only to champion Crawford by a single point. Top singles players are Kathy Rump, Gwen Whitehead, Chris Condon, and Marci Knowles, while the best doubles team is the combination of Terry Smith and Sue Mole.

Singles player Joanne Fornaca and the doubles combo of Debbie Beisner and Nancy Fletcher have helped the badminton team to second place in the Eastern League.

Robin Hervey, Mimi Eilers, Karen Schendleberg, Marti McCord, Wendy Morrison, Charlotte Olsen, and Norma Heidemann have made the volleyball team tough against anybody this season.

Meanwhile, the Gymnazettes have won the Eastern League championship this year and it's easy to see why when the squad has such talent as Debbie Sigurdson, Tracy Crowe, Leslie Rions, Janelle Ward, Celeb Litchenfeld, and Sandy Fillmore.

Swimming has been well-attended this year, not only because of the tantalizing appearance of the bathing beauties, but because of their performance as well. Linda Gaylord captains a squad of such talented mermaids as Kathy Brumfield, Terri Marsters, Phyllis Kramer, Denise Barnes, and Vicki Christianson.

You've come a long way, baby!

Twelve years in the education system concluded for 720 students at Patrick Henry as they swapped their normal garb for cap and gown. The Class of 1970, led by President Ron Tov, was able to hold several successful activities, yet the highlight of the year was the Senior Prom, "This Magic Moment." The after-party at Sea World and the excursion to Disneyland also added to the enjoymen of the seniors, as they both celebrated and lamented their leaving. The fulfillment of a long task is now complete, but for the 1970 Graduating Class, it's really just the beginning.

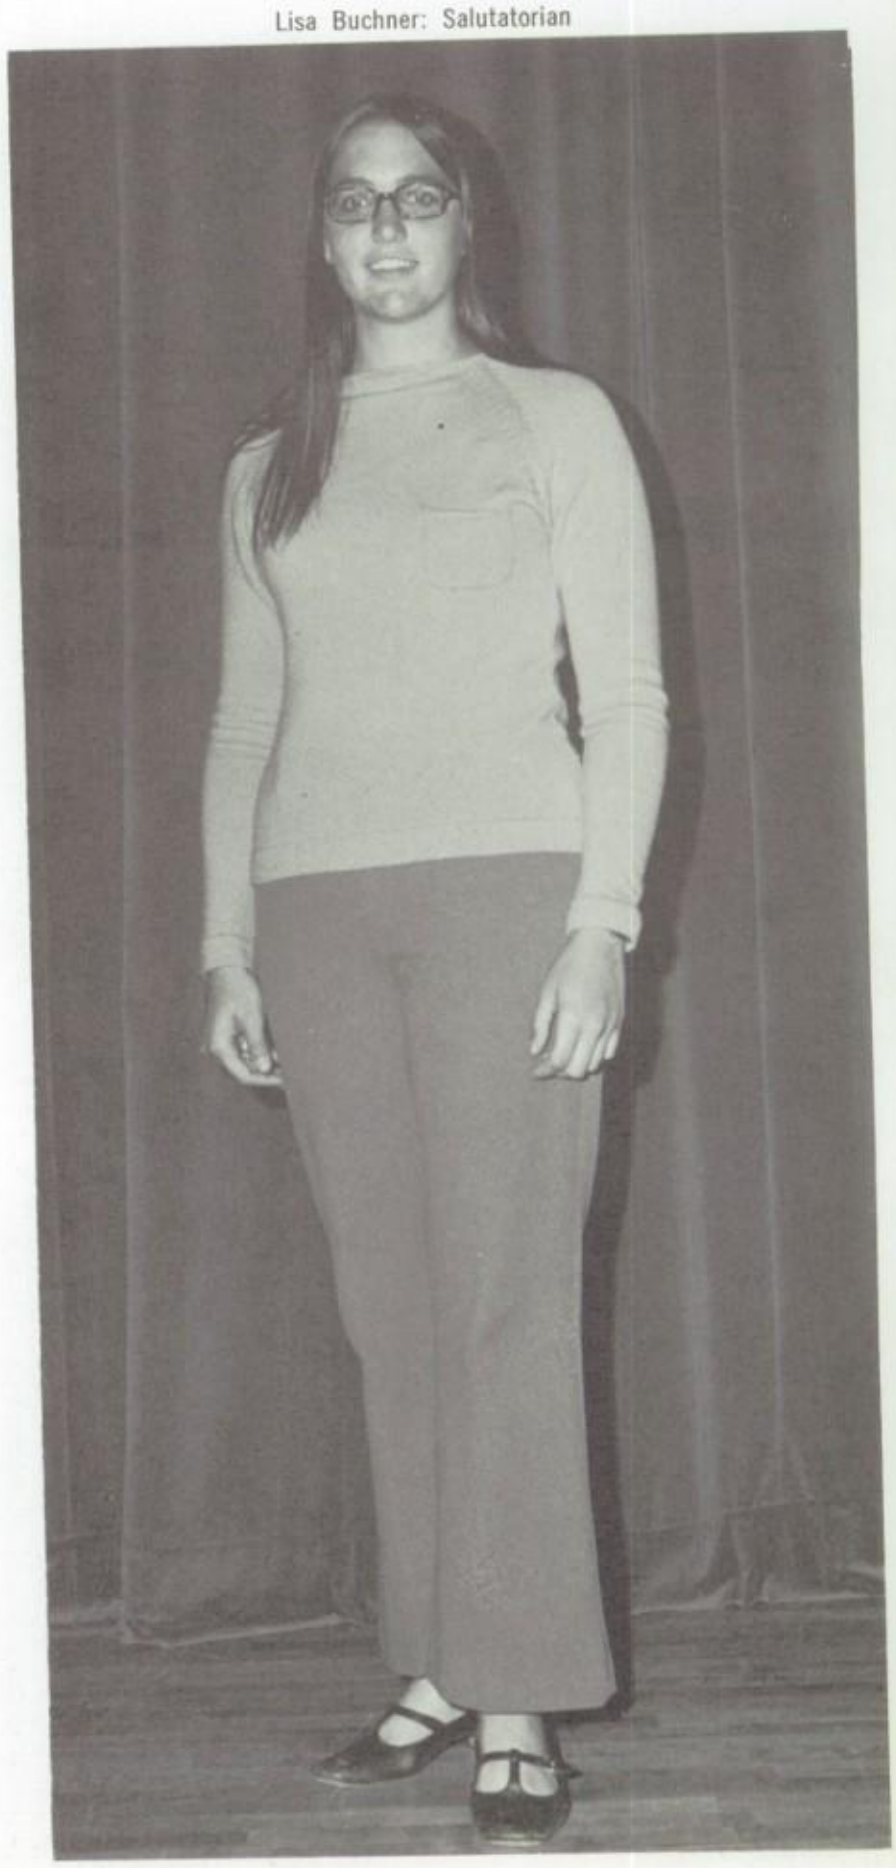
"THE PAST, THE PRESENT, AND THE FUTURE ARE ONE— THEY ARE TODAY"

Lisa Buchner: Salutatorian



Years from now, students of Patrick Henry High School can look back in their ENCOUNTER and see who the past valedictorians and salutatorians were. They'll remember that the first ones came in 1970 when that particular class of seniors graduated from Patrick Henry. Honored as the school's first valedictorian, Nancy Witcraft has richly deserved her honor. Finishing with a grade point average of 3.971, she finished ahead of 724 other seniors. Nancy will enroll in the University of California at Santa Barbara in the fall of 1970. The class salutatorian this year is Lisa Buchner, who is only behind Nancy by a few decimals. She finished with a sparkling 3.937 GPA. Lisa will continue her academic career this fall as she attends San Diego State. Because of their high averages compiled from grades ten through twelve, these two young women have finished at the top of the Class of 1970, the first ever from Patrick Henry.

SENIOR WEEK

Members of the Liberty Belles perform during the Senior Week-Spring Thing opening ceremonies

March 15-20 brings Senior Week, where the upperclassmen celebrate their not-too-distinct independence. Terrie Smith, the chairman of Senior Week, brainstormed until she came up with a number of events which would guarantee a good time for all. The slave auction, under the careful supervision of Larry Macurda, the water balloon fight between the teachers and the seniors, Hat Day, and the Senior Picnic are some of the activities which the seniors participated in. Bill Scudero's shapely legs gave him first prize in the Gorgous Gams Contest among senior boys. Earlier he and the rest of his cohorts journeyed to El Monte Park for the picnic, where box lunches were auctioned, football games were played, and water balloon duels were staged. It all adds up to a week of fun for the members of the Senior Class.

Yet the timelessness in you is aware of life's timelessness,

And knows that yesterday is but today's memory and tomorrow is today's dream.

But if in your thought you must measure time into seasons, let each season encircle all the other seasons,

And let today embrace the past with remembrance and the future with longing.

JUNIORS

Last year's junior class actually was the senior class of the school since there were only two grades in attendance. This year, the case is not the same, yet the shifting of roles has not altered the effectiveness of the 11th graders. President Paul Milne heads the corps of juniors, while John Bowen as veep and Terrie Carlson and Jane Bening at secretary and treasurer respectively round out the executive board. Through their efforts, special assemblies with guest performers were held.

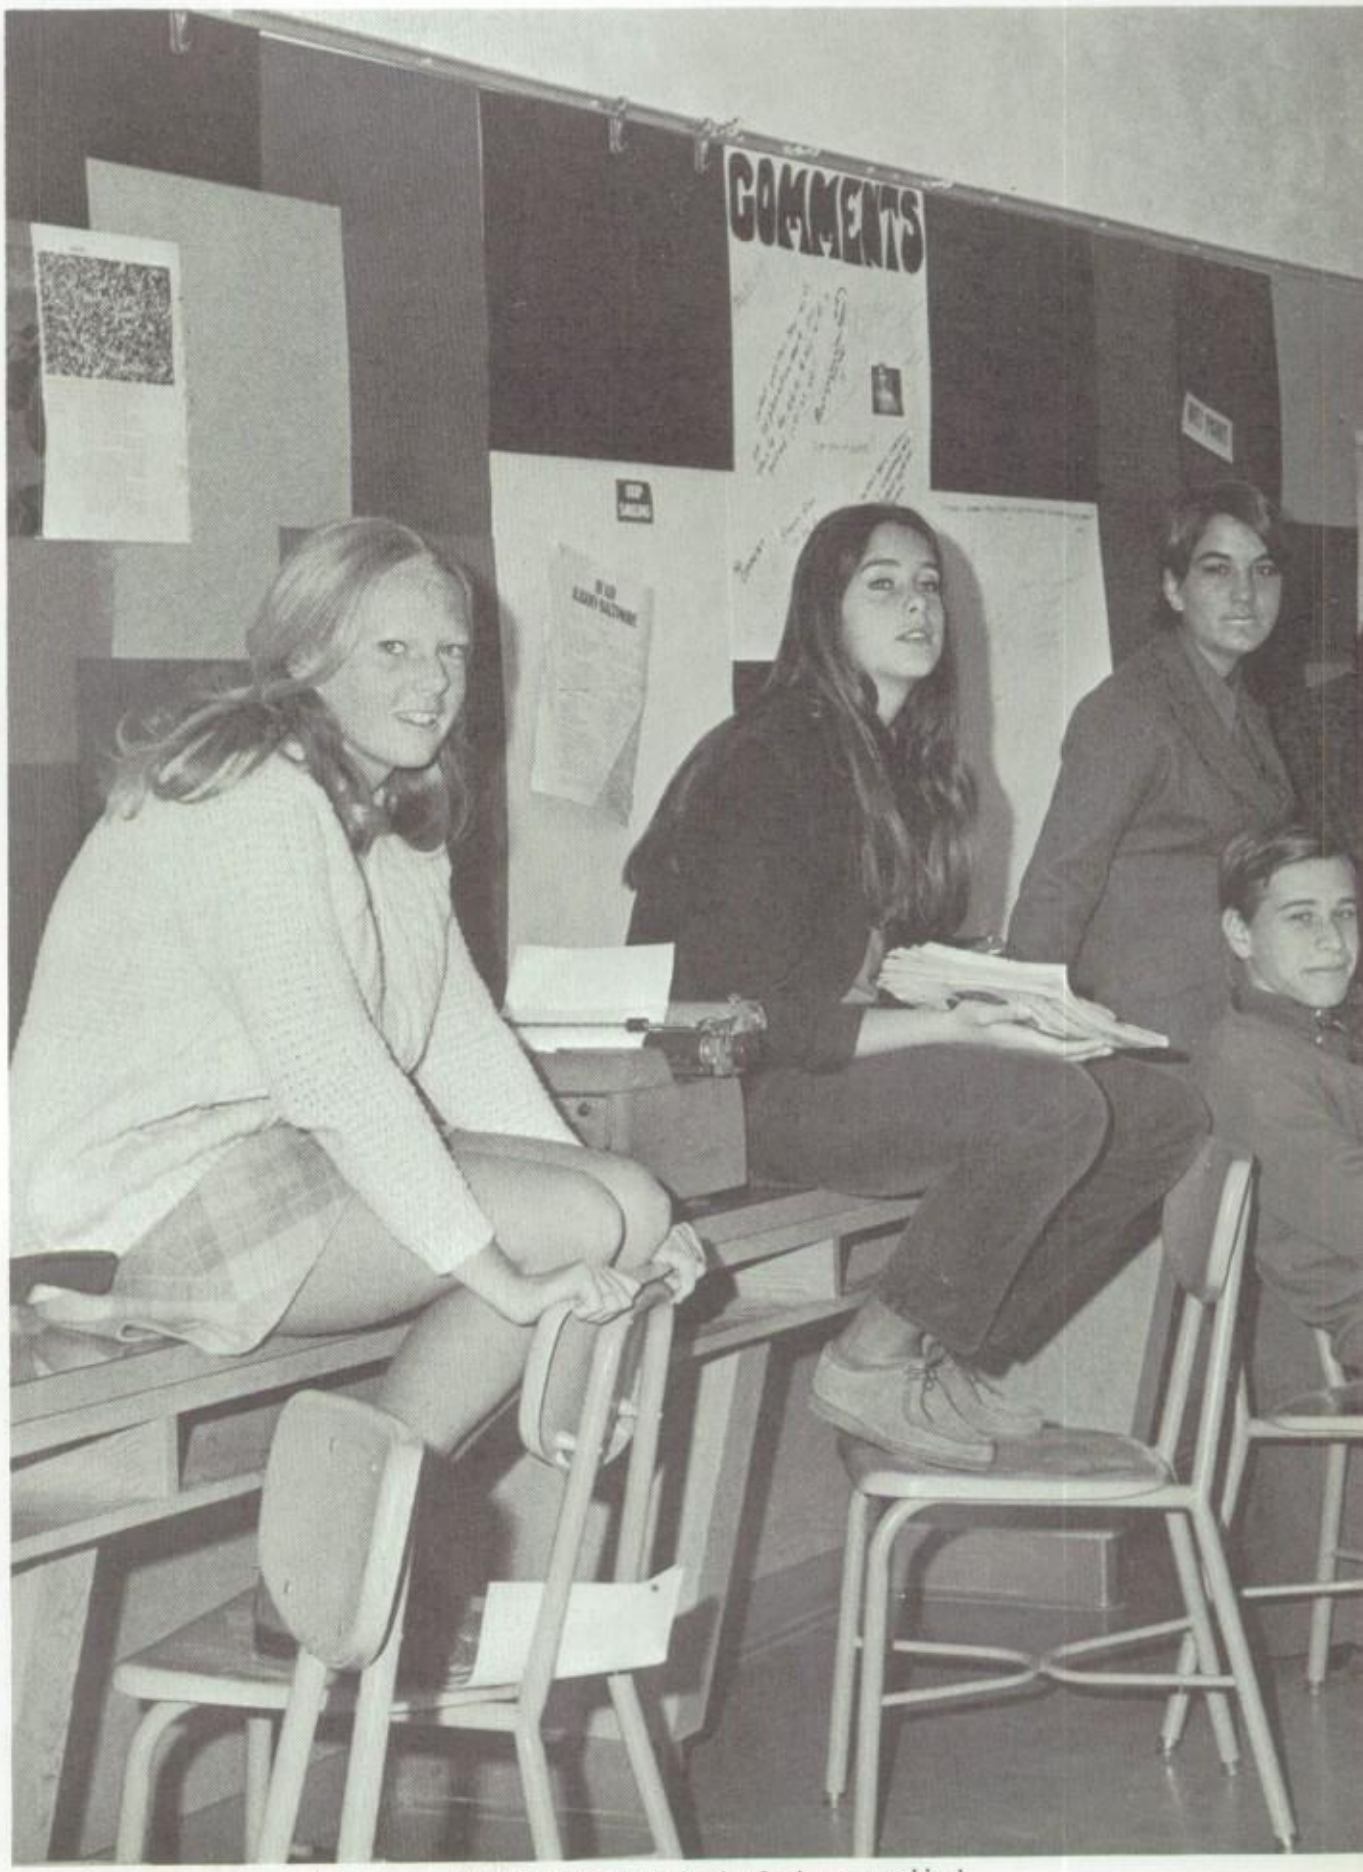
CLASS OF '72 STEPS INTO ACTION

The Class of 1972 had a remarkably effective showing considering the many obstacles they had to overcome at the beginning of the year. Entering a school only a year old, the class had to elect officers after the semester had begun, and also had to develop a sense of class pride. Elected leaders of the class were President Marty Wilson, veep Mark Krasner, secretary Debbie Fink, and treasurer Pam Howard. Mrs. Cox advised the group during its trying times, but after the preliminaries were settled, the class showed strong spirit. For the first time, a sophomore class elected their own JV song and cheerleaders. The 10th graders also planned several sales, and strived for a possible sophomore-sponsored dance.



Potential runs high in the Sophomore cabinet

501 PATRIETTES

One complaint about yearbooks is that people outside the annual staff don't have any say on the content of the pages. This year, ENCOUNTER '70 answers by initiating a guidance mod program which enables different home rooms to buy space in the book. The classes have free run on what they want to put on the page, and respond with a host of original ideas. The designs range from a collage of baby pictures of each student to classmates hanging upside down on football goalposts. The reactions to these pages are favorable, making the program a permanent fixture in future ENCOUNTERS.

What did Patrick Henry represent to you? Look back upon what has been significant, and just what you have made of this year.

Is Patrick Henry dead? . . . And what of its future? It all first started when the system could not be accepted. Then came the yellow lines, the restrictions on the girls' pants, the disagreements with the athletic department, then the so-called power of the ASB and finally the apathetic feelings found all over campus.

Or was it a school that you were really proud of? With an Eastern League championship football team, CIF gymnastics team, and the rest of the spectacular sports teams who really did their best, the changing of the out-dated dress code, and the quad, which gave us the chance to meet people, to learn about them and to understand. Finally being so fortunate to have the opportunity to try and experience the new kind of educational system and be a part of making it.

Can you be satisfied with the changes made or is there something else you could have done?

It is my hope that people's efforts have not been in vain and there will be more effort made towards making Patrick Henry a forerunner and finally a pace-setter of a better and more fulfilling educational system.
